WITH THE SUPPORT OF:

UNDERTAKING AND INNOVATING IN OUR TRAINING

Symposium Projectique – Campus UNIVERSIAPOLIS, International University of Agadir
From April 17th to 18th 2024

Languages: English, French and Spanish

The challenge of this symposium is to question “pedagogical innovation” in higher education and more particularly the approaches taken by the actors of training. The learning and acquisition of specific skills are part of the mission of higher education institutions. The educational system must support students throughout their course, by giving them the tools necessary for their professional and personal success. Today, so-called “extracurricular” skills appear essential in a constantly changing society where companies and organizations have strong ambitions in terms of values and responsibilities.

This meeting aims to bring together training actors so that they can share their experiences and work in synergy around an innovative theme regardless of their disciplinary field.

This year, as in previous years, contributions are expected to address innovations in training, original training practices as well as reflections on training feedback.

More generally, all contributions on educational innovation are welcome

Contributors are invited to send a summary presenting in 1 page maximum the originality of their approach, the added value compared to the existing one and the feedback from users. Contributions are expected by February 15, 2024, at the latest at the following address: projectique@e-polytechnique.ma

The most significant contributions selected by the scientific committee will be the subject of editorial support for publication in the PROJECTICS journal (www.cairn.info/revue-projectique.htm).
